The church was prettily decorated in palms, ferns and pink and white roses. Miss Lucile Ware presided at the organ and W. J. Phillips sang just before the entry of the bride. The bridesmaids were Misses Mary Campbell and Annie Laurie Dillard. They wore costumes fashioned after that of the maid of honor, with large black hats, and carried bouquets of La France roses. Addison Reynolds, of Richmond, and J. S. Phillips, were groomsmen and the ushers included E. M. Ware, E. W. Phillips, Frank Hutchinson and Robert G. Dillard. Of Interest Here. Miss Steele's bridesmaids will be her two sisters, the Misses Nancy and Kathryn Steele, and the Vicomte Francois de Rancogne will act as his brother's best man. Count Jean de La Greze is expected from Paris some time next week.

The reception will not be large, owing to the comparatively recent death of Miss Steele's grandfather, Seth Barton French, but there will be enough guests to insure plenty of festivity. CHAMPION BEST MAN WILL CLAIM A BRIDE

After Assisting at Record Number of Weddings of His Friends, Lewis Machier Himself Falls Victim to Cupid's Wiles.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Winchester, Va., October 2.—The marriage of Miss Mary Turner McInturff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. McInturff, of Strasburg, to Lewis Machier, a prominent young merchant of that place, which will be solemnized in St. Paul's Lutheran Church, at that place, on Wednesday afternoon, will be an event of more than usual interest, inasmuch as the prospective groom has long been known as the champion best man at weddings in the Valley of Virginia, and now he is to be the star in his own love drama. Up until a short time ago, Mr. Machier, who, incidentally, is a handsome young man of the Gibson type, was kept busy serving as best man at the weddings of his men friends, and a story was the round of the press that he was so accommodating that he always kept his pockets filled with 10 bills and wedding rings suitably engraved in case the bridegroom should be absent-minded and forget those necessary assets to a formal wedding ceremony. As a result of the story being published, Mr. Machier's mail increased beyond that received by any other man in the county, and he was besieged by souvenir hunters from all sections of the country for postcards bearing his photograph. In one respect, Mr. Machier has been outdone, for his pretty sister, Miss Bessie Machier, has been married a week ago, having been married a week ago at Edinburg to Harry Ellis, a Southern Railway conductor. The bride and groom took a short wedding trip, and they are now at home at Strasburg, ready to attend the marriage of Mr. Machier and Miss McInturff.

Leading residents of the thriving town of Boyce, Clarke county, are making arrangements to get a charter for the town. The boundaries have been staked off, and as soon as an official map is made the application will be made to the Circuit Court. During the past few years the town of Boyce has developed at Boyce, and it is now one of the most progressive places along the Norfolk and Western Railway. Some of the wealthiest men of this section of the State have homes in Boyce, and the people are working together for the general uplift of the place.

Just as soon as Joseph Chismore finishes term in the Winchester jail for violating the provisions of the Byrd liquor law, it is expected a deputy United States marshal will be at the front door to place him under arrest again. Chismore was arrested last week for carrying liquor to a young man named Carter, and the case was worked up by local agents of the Anti-Saloon League. He was fined $100 and asked for a peace bond of $1,000, and being unable to produce the money or bond he went to jail. The United States officers say he has also violated the Federal laws by selling liquor without a license, and they will get him.

All the officers recently elected by the Common Council for one-year terms began their duties on Saturday, the only change being in the office of Chief of Police, which is filled by M. A. Just as he was about to leave the City Hall the other evening Chief Sabright was presented with a solid silver tea set by some of his friends.
